Some people who have been affected by Grenfell may experience a range of unpleasant feelings that can appear suddenly or change rapidly; sometimes feelings may seem out of control; sometimes you feel very alert, jumpy and unable to settle. Other times you may experience sadness or depression, making you feel low. These can be symptoms of trauma.

It’s important that you and the people you care about know that when these feelings strike there are steps you can take to help you cope with them.

One very easy step you can take is referring yourself to The Grenfell NHS Health and Wellbeing Service. This service is there to help anybody who has been affected by the Grenfell tragedy and is suffering with the feelings they are experiencing.

If you feel like you or someone you know would benefit from the services provided by the Grenfell NHS Health and Wellbeing team, visit their website to find out more and self-refer yourself if you feel it necessary. You can also find a range of NHS self-help guides on this website.

The staff were pleased to back the #OKnottofeelOK campaign and showed their support in a short video that you can find on our social media channels: Twitter (www.twitter.com/grenfellsupport) and Facebook (www.facebook.com/grenfellsupport). In this video, the team talks a little bit about their roles and what they do day-to-day to support members of the community.

Kensington Aldridge Academy (KAA) have impressed with their first set of A level results, 62 per cent of all results were A* to B and 99.6 per cent of students secured A*-E. Almost all students that applied have been able to secure a university place.

The Grenfell NHS Health and Wellbeing Service can be reached by phone on 020 8637 6279 or by email on grenfell.wellbeingservice@nhs.net. There is also a daily drop-in you can attend at The Curve (10 Bard Road, W10 6TP). The Curve can be contacted on 020 7221 9836.

If you need help urgently, call 999.

Disability sport sessions at Kensington Leisure Centre

Kensington Leisure Centre and the RBKC Sports Team are offering inclusive sports and activity sessions for adults with disabilities. At whatever level you wish to take part, sport and physical activity is an enjoyable lifestyle choice. Being active is a great way to improve your health, clear your mind and put you into a better mood. Taking part in a sport or physical activity session is also a great way to build your confidence and meet likeminded people.

The free and low-cost sessions cover a range of activities including badminton, swimming with a qualified instructor (to promote cardiovascular activity), rebound therapy, yoga, gym club and more. If you or somebody you know would benefit from these inclusive activities, take a look at the website to find out more bit.ly/2IgX7V

Kensington Leisure Centre is on Silchester Rd, W10 6EX and can be contacted on 020 3793 8210.

Improve your English at ClementJames

Want to improve your English language skills? The ClementJames Centre provides free “English for speakers of a foreign language” (ESOL) classes and an “IntoWork” programme for adults on a low income.

If you or somebody you know might be interested in being added to the waiting list for places on English, Maths or IT courses in September, contact Marie on 020 7221 8810 or drop in to the centre at 95 Sirdar Road, W11 4EQ. For more information on the ClementJames Centre and the courses they offer, visit clementjames.org.

An update on Carnival
Respects will be paid to the victims, bereaved families and survivors of the Grenfell tragedy over the Notting Hill Carnival weekend (Saturday 25 August to Monday 27 August). Organisers and the local community are working together, with the support of the authorities, to ensure the following:

- A 72 second silence on both Sunday and Monday at 3pm. There will be a two minute announcement in the lead up to the silence.
- A quiet space for reflection along the Bramley Road memorial sites.
- The Lancaster West Estate will be closed to the general public.
- Artworks and creative shows of solidarity and remembrance to be encouraged and led by the community.

While Carnival is a hugely enjoyed and celebrated event across the borough and beyond, the Council is aware of certain disruptions that residents who live near the Carnival route experience. You can find out more about what the Council is doing to address these disruptions, as well as general information about Carnival such as maps, road closures, safety zones and travel information in the Notting Hill Carnival Residents’ Handbook, available online here: bit.ly/2vnlC4L

The Curve Community Centre will be closed over the Carnival weekend (Saturday 25 August to Monday 27 August) reopening on Tuesday 28 August at 10am.

Kensington Leisure Centre will also be closed on Sunday 26 August and Monday 27 August. Normal opening hours apply for Saturday 25 August and Tuesday 28 August.
